BASIC FUNCTION: This position connects guests to animals and nature by providing conservation driven educational programs, enriching guest experiences, and contributions to conservation science. Educators present programs for all ages, engage guests during interactive animal/habitat interpretation, provide mentorship for volunteers, help plan educational events, as well as research and write education material. Educators operate in a fast-paced work environment and must be able to adapt to changing needs while receiving individual/on-going assignments from the Curator of Conservation & Education, who defines standard operating procedures, objectives, tasks, priorities, deadlines, and assists with unusual situations that do not have a clear precedent. This seasonal position is part time and requires 21-35 hours of work per week.

PRIMARY DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

1. Attend all required trainings (interpretation skills, conservation, zoo history, animal areas, on-line coursework) and be proficient in communicating learned material and utilizing interpretive techniques.
2. Research and write educational materials such as interpretation worksheets, animal fact sheets, display information, web content, and materials for educators (lesson plans, presentation content, etc.).
3. Actively serve as an animal/habitat interpreter, oversee volunteer Naturalists, Interns and mentor Junior Zoo Keepers.
4. Present on-site educational programming including Zoo Camp, workshops, classes, table chats with biological artifacts.
5. Lead on-site educational tours for school field trips and guest tours.
6. Assist with Zoo2U outreach programs presenting curriculum and biological artifacts.
7. Assist in the planning and implementation of animal event days and special events.

8. Receive training on office operation, answer phone, reply to emails and follow up on messages.
9. Maintains a professional appearance in proper designated uniform during regular zoo hours.
10. Maintains professional behavior and positive attitude toward guests, co-workers, volunteers, interns, and at all times when in uniform.
11. Represents the Zoo and the Conservation Education Department in a professional manner and promotes its interests both internally and externally.
 - a. Represents the Zoo's position and interests in conservation, animal care, welfare and other issues in a professional, well-informed, positive, and responsive manner.
 - b. Keeps abreast of trends, information, and emerging issues related to areas of responsibility.
12. Follows all safety procedures that pertain to the duties performed.
13. Performs other related duties as assigned.
